Data is in demand. Since the start of 2021, we've seen a surge of new requests and enquiries for a tailor-made, data-driven support. As the housing sector continues to wrestle with big decisions and competing priorities, our customers need the insight they can trust, from a partner they can trust.

Housemark's data consultancy arm is growing, and we need your help to manage multiple end-to-end projects to ensure our customers get what they need, on time, within budget and from the right people. You'll be busy, but organised. You'll talk to customers and colleagues daily. You'll be good with numbers and words – writing persuasive bids and proposals comes naturally, and preparing financial reports is a breeze. You'll be the glue that brings our consultancy team, data experts, customer sales leads, associates and partners together – making sure we always know where we stand.

Housemark is the leading data and insight company for the UK housing sector. As a catalyst and change partner, we are here to give the sector greater confidence to make evidence-based decisions that make a difference. Our Consultancy provides tailored services and solutions to reimagine what's possible, make improvements and drive change.

This exciting new role will work closely with the Consultancy Lead and colleagues across the business, external stakeholders, and customers to support business growth and manage demand.

Our ideal candidate will have experience of working in a similar role with strong experience and demonstrable results.
